

On the cover

Parliament's rejection of the Brexit deal has created a monumental mess. Sorting it out will take time—and a second referendum: leader, page 11. The crisis raises questions not just about where Brexit goes next but also about the Conservative Party and democracy in Britain, page 53. Britain may be headed for a repeat of the 1850s: Bagehot, page 58

- The long arm of American law America's extraterritorial legal campaign against business is undermining its own authority: leader, page 12. Some of America's laws apply far beyond its shores. This can leave it open to accusations that it is serving its own commercial interests, page 61. The case of General Electric and Alstom, page 63

- Chickenomics: clucking profitable How chicken became the rich world's most popular meat, page 59

- Betting on China's bad debts Where most see peril, a hardy few see profits, page 69

- Restraining killer robots Humans must keep tight control of autonomous weapons: leader, page 17. The line between human and inhuman weaponry is fuzzy, important and breaking down, page 22
