

Hong Kong

On the cover

Huge demonstrations have rattled Hong Kong's government—and the leadership in Beijing: leader, page 7. The territory's people look like losing a security that is dear to them: briefing, page 15

• Raytheon and UTC join forces Military and industrial pressures are behind America's biggest defence merger: Schumpeter, page 58

• What will Modi do next? India's prime minister should use his second term for reform, page 29. Official GDP figures have been disavowed—by a former official, page 64

• Britain's great Tory panic The candidates to be prime minister are throwing away the Conservative Party's reputation for economic prudence: leader, page 8. Hardliners say a no-deal Brexit would be fine. Moderates say it could be stopped by Parliament. Both may be in for a nasty surprise, page 47. The question is not who will lead the Tory party, but whether it will survive: Bagehot, page 50

• Germany's anonymous billionaires We report from inside the secretive world of Germany's business barons, page 53
