

On the cover

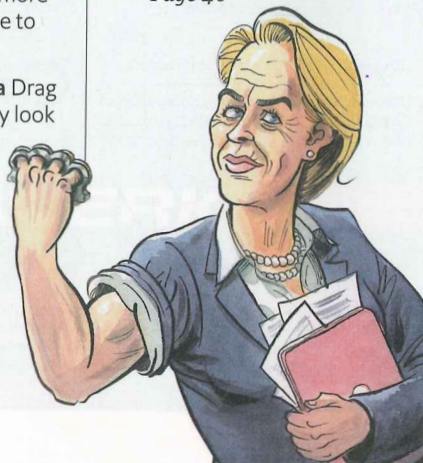

A new age of space exploration is beginning. It will need the rule of law and a system of arms control to thrive: leader, page 9. Attacking satellites is increasingly attractive. It could also be very dangerous: briefing, page 18. Space is commercialising. The legal system needs to catch up, page 50. There is renewed interest in returning people to the Moon. This time it might actually happen, page 65

- The electoral logic of racist tweets Donald Trump's re-election campaign is likely to be even more racially divisive than his first: Lexington, page 26. Amid the outrage over the president's race-baiting, his administration rewrote asylum law: leader, page 10

- Asia's homegrown trade war An escalating dispute between Japan and South Korea will test a strained global-trade system: leader, page 11. Relations between the two countries are fraying alarmingly: Banyan, page 33

- Why profits have peaked After years of plenty America Inc is struggling to crank out more earnings, page 10. Is it time to worry? Page 52

- Cross-dressing in China Drag artists are tolerated if they look like Chinese opera stars, page 37
