

On the cover

Hong Kong is not the only part of China's periphery that resents Beijing's heavy hand: leader, page 13. A generation shapes its identity on the anvil of Xi Jinping's intolerance: briefing, page 24. In response to a damning leak, few Chinese officials are blushing: Chaguan, page 42

• How hospitals rip you off American health care is a racket. Hospitals need a dose of transparency—and tougher antitrust action, too, page 14. The Trump administration wants hospitals to be more upfront about prices. They demand a second opinion, page 57

• Can McKinsey shrink to greatness? What happens when the management priesthood faces disruption: Schumpeter, page 62

• Fuel prices set Iran ablaze Rises in the price of petrol are fuelling unrest in Iran, page 43

• Impoachment: Americans and their dogs The meaning of America's canine obsession: Lexington, page 32
